

First Do No Self-Harm: Understanding and Promoting Physician Stress Resilience

Editors	Charles R. Figley, Peter Huggard, and Charlotte Rees
Preface		John Bligh
Section I	Theory of Physician Stress and Coping
Chapter 1	The Stress and Stress Injuries of Physicians: An Introduction to First Do No Self-Harm	The Editors
Chapter 2	The "Daily Grind" – Physicianhood	Simon Willcox
Chapter 3	Dealing with Death and Dying	Rod McLeod
Section II	Research Contributions
Chapter 4	Compassion Fatigue in Physicians: Prevalence, Predictive and Protective Factors	Peter Huggard
Chapter 5	Socialization into Medicine	Rain Lamdin
Chapter 6	Altruism: the balance between self-care and the interests of others	Jeffrey P Bishop & Charlotte Rees
Chapter 7	The Development of Emotional Intelligence in Medical Students	Charlotte Rees & Natalie Lewis
Chapter 8	How Doctors become Patients	Mamta Gautam
Section III	Methods of Assessment, Prevention, and Management
Chapter 9	Assessment of secondary stress and resiliency	Charles Figley
Chapter 10	The Professional Quality of Life scale (ProQOL)	Beth Stamm
Chapter 11	The Good Coper Physician -- at risk of Compassion Fatigue	Anna Baranowsky
Chapter 12	Treatment and Prevention work: Center for Practitioner Renewal	David Kuhl et al
Chapter 13	The Physician Health Program: Doctors Coming of Age	Michael Kauffman
Chapter 14	Professional Formation: Thoughts on Enhancing Resilience for Medical Students	Cathy Risdon
Chapter 15	Promoting Physician Stress Resilience Facing Ethical Decisions	Jeff Spike
Chapter 16	Stress and Generational Difference	Jane Lemaire & Jean Wallace
Chapter 17	Gender Differences in Coping Resources	Jane Lemaire & Jean Wallace
Chapter 18	The Impaired Physician	Ross McCormick
Chapter 19	The Stress of Complaints
Section IV	Personal Reflections
Chapter 20	Surgery	Pat Alley
Chapter 21	Palliative Care	Carol McAllum
Chapter 22	Paediatrics	John Newman
Chapter 23	Psychiatry	Shailesh Kumar
Chapter 24	Medical Students and Residents	Jessica Chynoweth
Chapter 25	Family Medicine	Bruce Arroll
Chapter 26	Anaesthesiology	Robin Youngson
Chapter 27	Conclusions and Future Directions	The Editors