Education

Ph.D., Graduate School of Library and Information Science, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, 2002. Dissertation: Disengagement from intrinsically transient social worlds: The case of a distance learning community. Committee: Caroline Haythornthwaite (chair), Bertram C. Bruce, Carole L. Palmer, Linda C. Smith.

M.L.S., School of Library and Information Science, University of Pittsburgh, 1994.

B.S., Mechanical Engineering, School of Engineering and Applied Science, Columbia University, 1993.

Research

Research areas include distributed knowledge, online social worlds, online learning and qualitative studies of health information behaviors. Current research focuses on science and scientists' team lifecycles and data use; online, mobile and liminal learning; and support for caregivers of loved ones with dementia.

Bibliography

Articles (in press)

Kazmer, M. M. (accepted April, 2011). The process of departing from online learning community revealed through examination of threaded discussions. International Journal of Web-Based Communities. Uses naturally-occurring discussions among e-learners to modify an existing model of online community departures.

Glueckauf, R. L., Davis, W. S., Hayes, J., Stutzman, M., McIntyre, V., Wesley, L., Kazmer, M. M., Burnett, K., Noel, L. T., Xu, J., Haire, K., Schettini, G., Sharma, D., Gustafson, D. J., Shipman, J., Willis, F., Murray, L., Parfitt, F., Proctor, J., Baxter, C., & Graff-Radford, N. (accepted January, 2012). Telephone-based, cognitive-behavioral therapy for African-American dementia caregivers with depression: Initial findings. Rehabilitation Psychology. Presents initial findings from a study of telephone-based cognitive-behavioral therapy for African-American dementia caregivers with depression. I wrote 10% of the content of the completed manuscript, comprising a subsection called "Pilot Study: Qualitative Analysis."

Hinnant, C. C., Stvilia, B., Wu, S., Worrall, A., Burnett, G., Burnett K., Kazmer, M. M., & Marty, P. F. (accepted March, 2012). Author team diversity and the impact of scientific publications: Evidence from physics research at a national lab. Library & Information Science Research. Presents findings from the analysis of citation information and author demographics of a sub-set of publications from scientists who used the National High Magnetic Field Laboratory.

Articles (refereed, published)

Johnson, E. D. M., & Kazmer, M. M. (2011). Library hospitality: Some preliminary considerations. Library Quarterly 81(4), 383-403. doi: 10.1086/661655 Uses hospitality theory as a lens to examine the history and status of hospitality in public libraries. Eric D. M. Johnson is New Media Specialist at Monticello.

Kazmer, M. M. (2011). Producers in asynchronous learner-led e-learning. New Review of Hypermedia and Multimedia 17(1), 121-139. doi: 10.1080/13614568.2011.552644 Takes a producer perspective to frame an analysis of the long-term development of a required graduate-level course in information organization.

Stvilia, B., Hinnant, C. C., Schindler, K., Worrall, A., Burnett, G., Burnett, K., Kazmer, M. M., & Marty, P. F. (2011). Composition of scientific teams and publication productivity at a national science lab. Journal of the American Society for Information Science & Technology 62(2), 270-283. doi:10.1002/asi.21464 Employs data from 1415 experiments conducted at the National High Magnetic Field Laboratory between 2005 and 2009 to examine whether team diversity and network characteristics affect productivity.

Lustria, M. L. A., Kazmer, M. M., Glueckauf, R. L., Hawkins, Robert P., Randeree, E., Rosario, I., McLaughlin, C., & Redmond, S. (2010). Participatory design of a health informatics system for rural health practitioners and disadvantaged women. Journal of the American Society for Information Science and Technology 61(11), 2243–2255. doi:10.1002/asi.21390. Mia Liza A. Lustria is an Assistant Professor at FSU-SLIS. Reports on the results of qualitative data collected via focus groups as part of the participatory design of a breast-cancer screening reminder system.

Kazmer, M. M. (2010). Disengaging from a distributed research project: Refining a model of group departures. Journal of the American Society for Information Science and Technology 61(4), 758-771. doi:10.1002/asi.21281. Tests and revises an earlier model of disengaging from online social worlds against empirical data from a distributed research group.

Kazmer, M. M. & Xie, B. (2008). Qualitative interviewing in Internet studies: Playing with the media, playing with the method. Information Communication & Society 11(2), 115-136. Compares the use of four media (face-to-face, telephone, e-mail, and Instant Messengers) for completing semi-structured qualitative research interviews.

Kazmer, M. M. (2007). How do student experiences differ in online LIS programs with and without a residency? Library Quarterly 77(4), 359-383. Examines the proposition that having an on-campus residency is vital to the success of students in an online graduate degree program by comparing empirical data from students in programs with and without a residency requirement.

Haythornthwaite, C., Bruce, B. C., Andrews, R., Kazmer, M. M., Montague, R., & Preston, C. (2007). New theories and models of and for online learning. First Monday, 12(8), August. Electronic journal, no pagination. Available at http://firstmonday.org/issues/issue12\_8/haythorn/index.html Presents six theoretical perspectives on online learning: living technology; co-evolution of technology and learning practices; (latent) tie formation; community-embedded learning; learner-leader model; and braided learning.

Kazmer, M. M. (2007). Beyond C U L8R: Disengaging from online social worlds. New Media and Society 9(1), 111-138. Proposes 12-step theoretical model of disengaging from online social worlds, based on longitudinal empirical research data with online distance learners.

Kazmer, M. M., Burnett, G., & Dickey, M. H. (2007). Identity in customer service chat interaction: Implications for virtual reference. Library & Information Science Research 29, 5-29. Examines data from three thousand dyadic chat sessions to explore issues of identity and provide implications for provision of virtual reference services.

Dickey, M. H., Burnett, G., Chudoba, K. M., Kazmer, M. M. (2007). Do you read me?: Perspective making and perspective taking in chat communications. Journal of the Association for Information Systems 8(1), 47-70. Uses perspective theory to analyze and explain miscommunications between call center employees and their customers during dyadic chat customer service interactions.

Kazmer, M. M. (2006). Creation and loss of sociotechnical capital among information professionals educated online. Library & Information Science Research 28, 172-191. Examines professional networking and cooperation from the perspective of sociotechnical capital lost when students disengage from distributed learning social worlds.

Kazmer, M. M. (2005). Community-embedded learning. Library Quarterly 75, 190-212. Proposes new concept of community-embedded learning, based on empirical research with online distance learners, arguing that learning outcomes for such students are different from, and often better than, learning achieved by on-campus students.

Kazmer, M. M. (2005). Cats in the classroom: Online learning in hybrid spaces. First Monday, 10(9), September. Electronic journal, no pagination. Available at http://firstmonday.org/issues/issue10\_9/kazmer/index.html Examines online learning classrooms as hybrid spaces, those that include both virtual and real places, and the impact of hybrid space on students' experiences.

Kazmer, M. M. (2005). How technology affects students' departures from online learning communities. ACM SIGGroup Bulletin, 25 (1), 25-30. Describes the effects of a variety of technologies on the intake and departure processes of online distance learners, based on analysis of multi-project dataset.

Kazmer, M. M. & Thakkar, U. (2004). Developing technological fluency in undergraduate IT education: Teaching amid evolving change in LIS. Journal of Education for Library and Information Science, 45(3), pp. 229-241. Uses evaluation and participant observation to analyze the process of course development in the area of information technology, given the rapid change in technologies and in students' expertise.

Burnett, G., Dickey, M. H., Kazmer, M. M., & Chudoba, K. M. (2003). Inscription and interpretation of text: A cultural hermeneutic examination of virtual community. Information Research, 9(4). Electronic journal, no pagination. Available at <http://InformationR.net/ir/9-1/paper162.html>. Uses an anthropological perspective and a methodology based in hermeneutics to illustrate how language use both reflects and influences culture in a virtual community of Usenet participants.

Susanna Rogers Smith (2006). "Information Professionals and the Intelligence Community."

Teaching Experience

Issues in Theory Development (LIS 6278). Doctoral seminar at the College of Information at FSU. (Spring 2006, Spring 2007, Spring 2008, Spring 2010, Spring 2011, Spring 2012)

Assessing Information Needs (LIS 5203). Elective course at the College of Information at FSU focuses on research methods and theories used to examine information behaviors. (Spring 2005, Fall 2010, Spring 2011, Spring 2012)

Introduction to Information Services (LIS 5603). Required course in the knowledge management concentration at the College of Information at FSU introduces graduate students to basic tenets of reference work, including print and digital resources, and face-to-face and digital reference services. (Fall 2002, Spring 2003, Fall 2003, Fall 2004, Fall 2005)

Information Organization (LIS 5703). Required course at the College of Information at FSU introduces graduate students to basic concepts of information organization, including categorization, classification, metadata, controlled vocabularies, and descriptive markup languages. (Fall 2002, Spring 2003, Spring 2004, Fall 2004, Spring 2005, Fall 2005, Spring 2006, Fall 2006, Spring 2007, Fall 2007, Fall 2009, Fall 2010, Fall 2011)

Information Representation (LIS 4701). Undergraduate elective at the College of Information at FSU introduces students to principles and techniques of organizing and representing information. (Fall 2003, Spring 2004)

Business, Social Science, and the Internet. Developed and taught elective course for undergraduate students in the Information Technology Studies Minor offered through the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. This course combines lectures with hands-on computer laboratory sessions. Students learn to use business and social science information through a variety of lessons including the information life-cycle, information evaluation, and efficient Internet information retrieval. Student feedback led to my inclusion in the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign Incomplete List of Teachers Ranked as Excellent by Their Students. (Spring 2001)

Careers in Information Technology. Developed and taught elective course for undergraduate first-year and second-year students at UIUC. The course uses a combination of guest speakers and timely readings to help students explore various information technology careers and undergraduate courses of study. (Spring 2000)

Science and the Internet. Developed and taught elective course for undergraduate students in the Information Technology Studies Minor offered through the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, UIUC. This course, which combines lectures with hands-on computer laboratory sessions, teaches students to use scientific information through a variety of lessons including the scientific publication cycle, information evaluation, and efficient Internet information retrieval. (Fall 1999)

Information Organization and Access. Assisted in teaching a core master's level course at the Graduate School of Library and Information Science at UIUC for four semesters, three of which were in the LEEP3 distance education program. Facilitated and monitored ongoing student discussions on the Web; responded as first-line contact for student problems and questions; assisted in assessment of students' work and progress; developed and presented new material to students; assisted in syllabus revisions. (Fall 1997 to Spring 1999)

Guest lectures. Developed and delivered class sessions on qualitative methods (Fall 2002) information technology consulting (Spring and Fall 2001), distance learning (Fall 2001), and models of library access (Fall 1998 through Fall 2001).

Graduate Teacher Certification. Earned the Graduate Teacher Certificate from the University of Illinois, having completed a sequence of classroom observations and videotaping, student feedback, reflective analysis, and continuing training. (Spring 2001)

Professional Appointments and Experience

Associate Professor, College of Information, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL. August 2008 to present.

Engage in research, teaching, and service.

Courtesy Associate Professor, College of Medicine, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL. April 2008 to present.

Engage in collaborative research with faculty from the College of Medicine.

Assistant Professor, College of Information, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL. August 2002 to July 2008.

Engage in research, teaching, and service.

Technical Information Specialist, Ford Motor Company Research Library and Information Services, Dearborn, MI. August 1995 to July 1997.

Worked with information systems organizations in the company. Coordinated digital conversion projects and participated in development of Web information systems. Performed online searches and worked at reference desk. Participated in Ford College Graduate Program, a program of education and rotations for new employees.

Academic Resident Librarian/Visiting Assistant Professor of Library Administration, Grainger Engineering Library Information Center, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Urbana, IL. August 1994 to July 1995.

Worked with NSF/NASA/ARPA Digital Library Initiative team on procuring and processing electronic documents. Communicated with publishers of engineering journals as testbed point person on the Standard Generalized Markup Language (SGML). Worked at library reference desk. Participated in the Academic Resident Librarian program.

General Assistant/Bibliographic Assistant, Avery and Butler Libraries, Columbia University, New York. March 1991 to August 1993.

Worked with a team on a grant project in the Avery art and architecture collection to create original cataloging records for 5,825 trade catalogs (lighting fixtures, paint, and pre-fabricated homes) published between 1875 and 1950. Created original cataloging for other rare books in the collection, including many in Spanish, Italian, French, and Portuguese. Worked with catalogers in the non-rare collections as needed.

Awards and Fellowships

Teaching
